

The Sathya Sai Donkey Sanctuary CLG ADOPT A DONKEY/PONY SCHEME 2024

Formerly known as the Sathya Sai Sanctuary Trust for Nature, The Sathya Sai Donkey Sanctuary CLG is situated adjacent to the ancient Neolithic site of Carrowkeel, in the Bricklieve Mountains at Castlebaldwin, Co. Sligo, two and a half miles (4 km) from the N4 Dublin to Sligo road. It is signposted from the village or follow the signs for the Carrowkeel Passage Tombs.

Set on a large site in beautiful surroundings the Sanctuary's aim is to provide refuge for elderly, unwanted, abandoned, and abused donkeys, and small ponies.

Once so much part of the Irish heritage these animals are now often forgotten or neglected in a world geared more for profit and production.

The Sanctuary is dedicated to Sathya Sai Baba, a non-sectarian spiritual teacher from India who gave the project his blessing in 1991.

The Sanctuary is funded largely by private donations with support from the Department of Agriculture, Food and the Marine and is run on a voluntary basis as a Registered Charity. With a view to the future, we have been in the process of changing the Charity Trust to a Charitable Company limited by guarantee. The process is lengthy and fairly involved but safeguards the future of the Sanctuary, giving everyone, including followers and supporters, great peace of mind. This effectively changes nothing except the title; which, from the 24th October 2023, has become The Sathya Sai Donkey Sanctuary CLG (a charitable company limited by guarantee).

Most of the donkeys who come to the Sathya Sai Donkey Sanctuary are elderly. An ever decreasing few would have been working donkeys who laboured for years bringing in the harvest and the turf, even carrying the milk churns to the creamery and ploughing and harrowing the fields. Nowadays this work is all done by tractors and other farm machinery.

They come to us from many sources: voluntary relinquishment when their owners can no longer care for them through ill health or death; abandonment, when they are usually found wandering loose on the roads or dumped on waste land or in forestry; or in cases of severe neglect or cruelty.

The most common problems involve neglect of their hooves due to inadequate, insufficient and unprofessional trimming, and keeping them in unsuitable conditions such as on wet, acid land with no shelter or recourse to somewhere dry. The neglected hooves shown below are totally unacceptable: owners could face prosecution.

The picture on the right shows a newly trimmed hoof: this is the correct shape and balance for a donkey!

Hooves should NEVER be sawn off or trimmed by an amateur.

Other common problems include skin disorders like rain scald and mud fever as a result of living out in Ireland's wet climate without a dry shelter. Both conditions are painful and difficult to cure. Whilst native ponies have good waterproof coats donkeys come from the desert areas of Africa and Asia and have no waterproofing in their coats.

Sometimes severe wounds are inflicted by an over tight rope halter or headcollar left on permanently. On a young animal that is still growing this is dangerous and can cause permanent damage to their respiratory system.

Under most circumstances any of our donkeys and ponies may be sponsored under our Adopt a Donkey/Pony Scheme but it should be remembered that older animals have a predictably shorter life span and young healthy animals may be placed into foster homes without notice. For those of you not familiar with our friends here are a few suggestions.

Tommi - a donkey gelding now 29 yrs with a slightly shaggy chestnut coat who came to us as a year old foal with a mild spinal problem.

Perdido - meaning 'the lost one' was found abandoned on the road at 5 months old in poor condition. After a poor start he has grown into a robust and healthy boy.

Victor - a pure white 'proper gentleman' donkey gelding who was found abandoned on the road with badly overgrown hooves and taken in by a kind man who passed him onto us. He suffers with his joints but is uncomplaining.

Charlie Dougal - an unwanted colt foal who arrived at 6 months old. He was well handled and very friendly so was 'buddied up' with Perdido and the two are now inseparable.

Merlin - a 14.2hh piebald mare now in her mid twenties and suffering from arthritis in her hips. Merlin was a children's riding pony for many years and was relinquished when her owners realised she was in too much pain to be ridden.

Retirement suits her well. A sweet natured girl.
